Listen, I'm not completely stupid. The point of a business is capital gain. I know the opinions of people mean next to nothing to you. If you have the option of taking advantage of people for more money you will in a heart beat. To even bring up the notion of disregarding Net Neutrality is heinous. So, either you are really, really ignorant, or know exactly what you are doing and don't care. All I ask is this one time use your position to think of anything but yourself. Please.
