please consider rural America programming when looking at these mergers and find a way to guarantee tv service to rural areas so the large companies can't drop them after they are merged. The rural electric companies are set up this way and the tv internet can be also.

This will continue to help people consider staying or moving to the country. They need the same services as the city folks have so the country folks can also compete.

Also think of the emergency services and keep the communication services available to them.
