

7521345198.txt

I believe that net neutrality should be upheld, and not taken down in benefit of monopolies like cable companies. Net neutrality ensures that consumers will receive the same speeds for all sites, regardless of the site's "power." Abstaining from this principle would not only hurt consumers, but also the start-ups that post their information on sites. If major corporations like Netflix, Google, and Facebook are against getting rid of net neutrality, then even the FCC can see that it is a horrible idea.