

7521348546.txt

Net Neutrality is important because of the internet's value as a medium for information transfer. Allowing an oligopoly to control how quickly that information can be received is harmful to society as a whole.