I was blessed to grow up in an age where the internet was in its teenage years, and I personally have felt that I have grown alongside, to the point to where I cannot imagine life without it. Not in the social media sense that most people my age have come to rely, but the information that is available to me, and the fact that the only person with any discretion of what I learn and teach myself is, most importantly, myself. The internet is the prime example of what the world could potentially be, a truly free community. Everyone has the right to Free Speech, but in fact, the Neutral Internet is one of the only realms in which Free Speech thrives.

We are all persecuted by our peers, and with Free Speech comes terms and phrases which are vulgar, cruel, and down right unacceptable. However, these are much preferable to any form of regulation or control, if it stifles that freedom. Your suggestions for how the internet should be run, and changed, will destroy the Neutral Net that I have come to love and rely upon, and with it any hope that the Internet will continue to grow, evolve, and better itself, as all things must. I am 23, and I had hoped that the internet would outlive me, as I feel it is most essential for the people of Earth to improve, and learn more about the world around them. I see these actions you are trying to take as a blatant act to monopolize the Internet, something I had once thought impossible, and I personally oppose your movement to do so.
