

7521363926.txt

The internet was created to be an opportunity for anyone, anywhere to access what they want. If Net Neutrality falls, equality on the internet falls. The internet is not the place for paying for "fast lanes." We cannot give service providers the power over the people to choose what is fast and what isn't. The internet was made to be free territory, and should stay free territory.