

7521366276.txt

There are so many areas of life in the United States where significant segments of our population are at a structural disadvantage. The internet should not be one of them. Access to high speed internet is essential in todays world. Free flow of information, not dependent on wealth, is also key to many forms of innovation. Our economy, our culture, and our democracy have been enhanced by the neutral environment that has existed on the internet up to this point. To allow some established companies to limit access to the highest speeds to only those who can afford it creates a two tier system in which corporations rather than consumers decide which information we will be able to access easily. Please do not allow this to happen. We are the country of public libraries and freedom of speech. We have always valued free and open access to information. Please support net neutrality in the name of all of our citizens.