

This planned change to our web communications is silly and stupid and every SINGLE person in America understands that it would be wrong for the FCC to allow a few companies to ruin the economic and competitive balance of the internet. If the richest, most recognizable companies in the world want some more money, all they have to do is wait a few seconds... there... they just made more than I will make all year. This is insane to even consider. Please, FCC, blow everyone's minds and stop this ridiculousness. But if you don't, we'll understand. I can't remember the last time "we, the people" had a decision made to benefit us. And the idea that any of this is to "speed" up the internet is bogus. We have the technology, RIGHT NOW, for significantly faster connections, and other countries in the world experience blazing speeds, compared our fastest connections available (to normal people). I'll bet Obama can stream some darn smooth video already.
