

7521373868.txt

I pay my ISP to provide internet access to me at a specified bit-rate. If the ISP needs to coordinate better with a service provider in order to provide the product they sell me then the ISP needs to do that. It would be wrong for them to charge extra for to provide the service they are contracted to provide.