

7521377038.txt

The Internet is one of the greatest tools for communication, entertainment, work, and collaboration that man has ever built. All internet traffic should be treated exactly the same way. If large companies have the ability to charge a fee for certain kinds of traffic, large companies will end up owning the Internet, to the detriment of small companies and individuals.