

7521378778.txt

The Internet must remain an open internet, accessible in the same way to all Americans. A system where companies with more money can have faster service to attract people who can pay away from the standard services that the rest of us get, is yet another blow to Middle Class America. Start-up companies could not compete with established, moneyed companies which would quash innovation. America's greatness came from innovation. Leave the Internet an open Internet.