

To Whomever Reads This Email,

Equality doesn't ask much of us, really all it asks is a chance to exist. Please reconsider the seemingly inevitable decision which you will make, that decision being the tightening of your grip upon equality's throat.

Thank you,
Andrew Miele