Dear FCC,

My name is William Beauregard Rowe and I live in Winston-Salem, NC.

Net neutrality, the principle that Internet service providers (ISPs) treat all data that travels over their networks equally, is important to me because without it ISPs could have too much power to determine my Internet experience by providing better access to some services but not others.

A pay-to-play Internet worries me because new, innovative services that can't afford expensive fees for better service will be less likely to succeed.

It gives me knowledge of a million and one things, all of which you're trying to take away. Please stop.

Sincerely,

William Beauregard Rowe
