

7521386435.txt

Allowing two tier internet may be able to get by the Constitution, and so by law it may be able to stand, but there is one document that supplies many morals for Americans written by the Founding Fathers, namely, the Declaration of Independence.

A small start up company will generally not be able to purchase this two tiered internet providing that these men and women are trying to making a living, and thus, making it more difficult for them to have a happy, successful life compared to those companies that have already achieved success and wealth. This situation results in invading the unalienable right of said men and women to the pursuit of happiness.

This is providing that the owners of poorer, newer, start up businesses are treated as equal men and women compared to the men and women of said rich, and financially stable companies.