I am commenting to demand the FCC support the concept of net neutrality leading to a free and open internet. The internet should be classified as a common carrier utility to provide equal access to consumer and provider. The reckless disregard for these concepts will destroy the democratic platform that is the internet and destroy innovation and capital investment. We have already seen evidence of this in venture capital firms withdrawing support for new projects due to the guaranteed increased costs of internet startups if a fast lane is created on the net. Finally, as a former lobbyist, Chairman Wheeler should recuse himself from any vote that could be viewed as beneficial to cable and internet providers.
