Dear FCC,

My name is Aidan Williams and I live in Ridgefield, CT.

Net neutrality, the principle that Internet service providers (ISPs) treat all data that travels over their networks equally, is important to me because without it ISPs could have too much power to determine my Internet experience by providing better access to some services but not others.

A pay-to-play Internet worries me because ISPs could act as the gatekeepers to their subscribers.

As a growing teen soon needing to supply for myself, I will need the internet for college, future businesses, etc. and with prices rising it will be harder to supply for myself and get ahead of the curve.

Sincerely,

Aidan Williams
