Dear FCC,

My name is Laken Pugsley and I live in Lima, OH.

Net neutrality, the principle that Internet service providers (ISPs) treat all data that travels over their networks equally, is important to me because without it users may have fewer options and a less diverse Internet.

A pay-to-play Internet worries me because ISPs could act as the gatekeepers to their subscribers.

The future of the Internet matters to me because it is perhaps the last medium in which freedom of speech truly exists, making it the most reliable source of information.

Sincerely,

Laken Pugsley
