Dear FCC,

My name is Jennifer Leist and I live in Cincinnati, OH.

Net neutrality, the principle that Internet service providers (ISPs) treat all data that travels over their networks equally, is important to me because without it ISPs could have too much power to determine my Internet experience by providing better access to some services but not others.

A pay-to-play Internet worries me because new, innovative services that can't afford expensive fees for better service will be less likely to succeed.

I think that access to everything that our internet has to offer regardless of economical ability to pay is imperative to our democratic society.

Sincerely,

Jennifer Leist
