Dear FCC,

My name is Joe Pierzchala and I live in Littleton, CO.

Net neutrality, the principle that Internet service providers (ISPs) treat all data that travels over their networks equally, is important to me because without it ISPs could have too much power to determine my Internet experience by providing better access to some services but not others.

A pay-to-play Internet worries me because ISPs could act as the gatekeepers to their subscribers.

Allowing ISPs to control content by offering bandwidth to the highest bidder will only result in stifling competition and innovative services to the benefit of the few and the detriment to the masses.

Sincerely,

Joe Pierzchala
