Dear FCC,

My name is Chrysanthi Wilson and I live in Columbus , OH.

Net neutrality, the principle that Internet service providers (ISPs) treat all data that travels over their networks equally, is important to me because without it users may have fewer options and a less diverse Internet.

A pay-to-play Internet worries me because new, innovative services that can't afford expensive fees for better service will be less likely to succeed.

The Internet is important to me because, as a distance learning college student, I need to know that there will not be barriers to my education. I am working on my masters in environmental education online and connecting with passionate like minded people all over the globe. If ISP subscribers have an easier time loading their school sites then me there?s no way that I will be able to compete or succeed.

Sincerely,

Chrysanthi Wilson
