Dear FCC,

My name is Mary syvrud and I live in Rockwall, TX.

Net neutrality, the principle that Internet service providers (ISPs) treat all data that travels over their networks equally, is important to me because without it Powerful groups can exert unwanted and undesirable control over the free speech and spread of ideas that net neutrality promotes

A pay-to-play Internet worries me because I don't want any corporate or government influence altering at what speed I can access media. Neutrality&speedcan both be.

The internet is likely the most free and open way to spread facts and ideas across the world without such great control from powerful groups. This is important to the freedom and safety of people as well as to the development of ideas and technology and the connection of peoples and groups. It can increase understanding and spread truth, and it shouldn't be controlled by a very small segment of the world's popul ati on.

Sincerel y,

Mary syvrud
