Dear FCC,

My name is Jason Kim and I live in La Mirada, CA.

Net neutrality, the principle that Internet service providers (ISPs) treat all data that travels over their networks equally, is important to me because without it ISPs could have too much power to determine my Internet experience by providing better access to some services but not others.

A pay-to-play Internet worries me because ISPs could act as the gatekeepers to their subscribers.

Look, I know this is a form letter that is being sent in mass, but that doesn't make my comment any less important or real. Why are you capitulating to the pressure of a few corporations? How can you HONESTLY believe that this is the best interest of everyone? You can't and you know it. Stop being beholden to these corporations, and start serving the people. Keep innovation alive. Keep competition alive. Keep the internet free.

Sincerely,

Jason Kim
