Dear FCC,

My name is Ms. Tinetrea Campbell and I live in Akron, OH.

Net neutrality, the principle that Internet service providers (ISPs) treat all data that travels over their networks equally, is important to me because without it users may have fewer options and a less diverse Internet.

A pay-to-play Internet worries me because ISPs could act as the gatekeepers to their subscribers.

I am an adult, I do not need or require ISPs to dictate to me what content I can or cannot use. The internet should always be a place of free-flowing information about any and everything without the fetters of any big company playing big brother. Monopolizing and capitalizing the people who cannot afford high internet bills, but who need it to survive. Most children now use the internet to complete school assignments, people need it for their jobs and careers, small businesses need it to get their business going strong. The direction that the internet is going will be detrimental to our society as a whole. Commerce, free-trade, free-speech, education, justice and many other areas will be affected by this. I urge you to make the right decision, please let net neutrality remain the free-spirited, free-thinking creation that it is.

Sincerely,

Ms. Tinetrea Campbell
