Dear FCC,

My name is Jeremy Myslinski and I live in Del Mar, CA.

Net neutrality, the principle that Internet service providers (ISPs) treat all data that travels over their networks equally, is important to me because without it ISPs could have too much power to determine my Internet experience by providing better access to some services but not others.

A pay-to-play Internet worries me because ISPs could act as the gatekeepers to their subscribers.

As a user of the internet and an amateur musician, a free and neutral internet allows me to reach new audiences with ease, in a way that could be threatened by ISPs gaining too much control of the flow of traffic. The FCC is the voice of America and has a responsibility to this and future generations to set a precedent of net neutrality that fosters free thought and ease of information sharing.

Sincerely,

Jeremy Myslinski
