Dear FCC,

My name is Jeremy Medrano and I live in Coppell, TX.

Net neutrality, the principle that Internet service providers (ISPs) treat all data that travels over their networks equally, is important to me because without it ISPs could have too much power to determine my Internet experience by providing better access to some services but not others.

A pay-to-play Internet worries me because new, innovative services that can't afford expensive fees for better service will be less likely to succeed.

The internet is important to me because I can choose what to learn and at what pace, with YouTube videos like Crash Course, and CGP, I can have access to these videos and one day I hope to make some of my own.

Sincerely,

Jeremy Medrano
