Dear FCC,

My name is Nick Wester and I live in Henderson, NV.

Net neutrality, the principle that Internet service providers (ISPs) treat all data that travels over their networks equally, is important to me because without it users may have fewer options and a less diverse Internet.

A pay-to-play Internet worries me because new, innovative services that can't afford expensive fees for better service will be less likely to succeed.

I am a small business owner that depends on large volumes of data going to and from my servers. If I am going to be charged on volume, I will lose my ability to compete with the bigger companies that currently dominate the market.

Sincerely,

Nick Wester
