I don't expect net neutrality to persevere. The FCC is run by a former ISP employee, talk about the sleazy, fascist corporatism that will eventually kill this country. It's infected the state-already a dangerous thing- breeding regulatory protections into it's monopolies, spinning the revolving door of domestic agencies and industry faster and more boldly into the economic ass of tax paying Americans.

I can implore you to not be absolute lobbyist-paid slime, or I can tell you simply that the more you fuck over those who are not in bed with the tyranny of incumbents that is Congress, the more disillusioned the people become. Protect the rights of we the people, or as history has proven dozens of times, the people will protect themselves

Sic Semper Tyrannis, good day.
