Dear FCC,

My name is Stu Haack and I live in Las Vegas, NV.

Net neutrality, the principle that Internet service providers (ISPs) treat all data that travels over their networks equally, is important to me because without it users may have fewer options and a less diverse Internet.

A pay-to-play Internet worries me because new, innovative services that can't afford expensive fees for better service will be less likely to succeed.

The Internet is important to me because it is the single greatest medium humanity has ever created, allowing us to spread ideas, knowledge and culture without bureaucracy or barriers. This new proposal could literally stifle the global wealth of information and set us back decades.

Sincerely,

Stu Haack
