

Dear FCC,

My name is Brent Godin and I live in Millville, MA.

Net neutrality, the principle that Internet service providers (ISPs) treat all data that travels over their networks equally, is important to me because without it ISPs could have too much power to determine my Internet experience by providing better access to some services but not others.

A pay-to-play Internet worries me because ISPs could act as the gatekeepers to their subscribers.

The Internet is important because it serves as the most important source of innovation in news, education, entertainment and communication created by hundreds of millions of peoples passion and continued effort to both wow each other and make new industries along the way.

Sincerely,

Brent Godin
