

7521676811.txt

We all need a level playing field for access to information online, which is the basis of nearly all opportunity now. If certain organizations can pay to have access to their information preferenced, it's the same as any other form of censorship. The internet needs to be a democratic forum with regard to information access. Don't ruin it like you have mass media, cable companies, and all the other information industries that no longer serve the public interest as they ought to.