

7521677329.txt

The internet has been fostered by its open and equal architecture. Selling access to the highest bidders will severely limit future development including the next big thing.