The following comments are mine and do not necessarily reflect the position of my current employer.

Net neutrality ensures equal access to information and resources.

The proposed actions will put an undue burden on small business (a major job creator) and educational institutions. The increased costs will impact tuition at most colleges and universities. Increased costs may slow down research activities, which in turn may decrease innovation and/or medical progress. An irony is that the very community (higher ed) that first adopted this technology may literally be priced out of use.

Safety communications, including emergency weather and crime notices may become unavailable or limited. What contingencies are considered for public safety and business continuity needs?

A small group of large for-profit companies will control the information highway at the expense of education, job growth and innovation.

Please reconsider this action.
