Dear FCC,

My name is Rodger Hurlburt and I live in Cincinnati, OH.

Net neutrality, the principle that Internet service providers (ISPs) treat all data that travels over their networks equally, is important to me because without it users may have fewer options and a less diverse Internet.

A pay-to-play Internet worries me because ISPs could act as the gatekeepers to their subscribers.

The Internet is important to me because, as a technical professional I better than most understand the importance of a free exchange of ideas. Right now the internet is the most important venue for exchange of innovation and free thinking ever to exist. Protect Net Neutrality; basically do your job and the will of the people.

Sincerely,

Rodger Hurlburt
