Dear FCC,

My name is Rebecca Mohr and I live in Elyria, OH.

Net neutrality, the principle that Internet service providers (ISPs) treat all data that travels over their networks equally, is important to me because without it ISPs could have too much power to determine my Internet experience by providing better access to some services but not others.

A pay-to-play Internet worries me because new, innovative services that can't afford expensive fees for better service will be less likely to succeed.

As a photographer, I spread and show my work via the internet. Without it, I would have a smaller audience, and in return, fail to sell my prints. I am a college student who can barely afford to pay my bills, let alone my already poor internet service. Please, please do not let this pass!

Sincerely,

Rebecca Mohr
