

7521701061.txt

An open internet is the greatest tool we have to educate our future generations. Anything that allows corporations to prevent people from learning because it is in their interest of the bottom line is a poison to the future of America.