Dear FCC,

Net neutrality, the principle that Internet service providers (ISPs) treat all data that travels over their networks equally, is important to me because without it ISPs could have too much power to determine my internet experience by providing only certain services that they deem. A pay-??to-play Internet worries me because new, innovative services that can't afford expensive fees for better service.

The Internet is important to me because, as a college computer science student, I need to know that there will not be barriers to entry for the new ideas and services that I hope to bring to the marketplace. If ISP subscribers have an easier time loading websites of existing companies than my new innovative product, there??s no way that I or anyone else will be able to compete or succeed. There have been many ideas that had changed many people life's for the better.

Sincerely,
