

7521706758.txt

Due to the amount of commercially available equipment that can still easily intercept signals over the 800Mhz band, future use of the band by Public Safety Officials of any kind should require encryption, for the privacy of the very people being protected, and for the safety of those responding to calls.