I think that any legislation or ruling that gives power to the cable providers or ISPs in general, is a bad idea. Don't allow them to squelch even more small businesses than they do already.

Anything that gives them the power to provide preferential treatment for their customers over others only brings us one step closer to a closed market and monopolization for ISPs. Why is it that our communications infrastructure is so far behind other countries? It's because of monopolies like Time Warner, Comcast, Verizon, AT&T, etc. They have held us back, I believe. Not moved us forward.

Please keep the internet open and free.

Thank you,
Adam
