

7521717386.txt

As an ISP customer, I have paid for a certain bandwidth. It is unfair and un-American for my ISP to slow down the traffic I've already paid for in order to extort money from content providers.

Real net neutrality means treating all internet traffic the same, and not slowing down traffic for some content providers in order to extort them (and in practice, extort us - customers and citizens).

The FCC must protect real net neutrality.

Thanks for listening.