I believe it is essential for our democracy that an open internet be preserved. The best way to do this is Title II designation. An open internet is now on the same level of importance as water, electricity, public transportation, public health, etc. I have an implanted medical device that relies on communication. As a country we cannot let the internet deteriorate into a battleground for large corporation's profit. We all know what will happen, a further hardening of the sharp divisions in class, access and opportunity for all our citizens. PLEASE don't cave in to the money interests of the few, but preserve an internet that serves all citizens for the next 100 years. Sincerely, Gary Kohlenberg
