

7521734576.txt

I oppose ending net neutrality because it will allow existing monopolies to foreclose opportunity.

It will allow the current internet providers to dictate which internet business succeed and which one fails. It will raise the barriers to entry for new players.

Allowing this rule to move forward will increase the monopoly power of my cable company that provides my internet service. I pay more for my internet access than other developed countries. The FCC should be looking to neutralize the power of existing monopolies rather increasing it