RFD-TV supports the goals that I have set for my life's ambition of owning and managing an equine facility that is up to date politically and technically in the business of taking care of horses. I was a single Caucasian woman with a dream. Things fell into place just prior to 911 for me to begin building the barn that is the hub of Rockin Horse Ranch. Now married, my husband and I manage a very thriving business. RFD-TV carries Stock Tips, Land management advise, and an array of equine education and training programs. I would NOT subscribe to a network that would not carry the RFD channels. It is important for us as rural subscribers but also the urban families' need to understand the link between Rural and Urban societies. Food doesn't grow in those trucks that drive into the cities! It is grown in rural communities by "The American Farmer". Thanks you.
