We presently live in Griffin and are getting ready to move back to a rural community in Middle GA. We have enjoyed RFDTV in the past and really relied on it when we were living out in the country.

It offers excellent program for those who live in rural areas and its important to service those folks too! Here is something more important...Georgia's Dept. of Agriculture puts out a periodical called the Market Bulletin. It's the life blood of this state. Whether it has to do with dairy, cattle or goat farming, alpacas and llamas or chickens, whether you grow produce, or raise horses or want to seed swap, whether you need farm equipment or are looking to buy or sell land, or build log cabins and yurts, and discover much more... this periodical serves this WHOLE rural community. This is what RFDTV does. If anything, it needs to continue to look at the ways it can meet the needs of the people living in rural areas and be carried on country wide Cable and Satellite TV through RFDTV. Thank you for opening up a forum for our comments.
