

7521751480.txt

I support net neutrality because it keeps the Internet a public, equal forum. It is the only space in which a tiny startup has the same potential influence as a major company. To allow certain companies to pay more to receive faster streaming speeds would be devastating. It would bring a class system to the Internet--in yet another capacity of our society, the "haves" would overrule the "have-nots." This bill is the start of a slippery slope--any sort of Internet regulation threatens the level playing field Internet users across the country enjoy. Please protect net neutrality; don't ruin the Internet because of a few selfish companies.