The Comcast/Time Warner Cable merger is NOT a good idea for the public. When competition in any industry shrinks, so does product/service quality, choice, and in some cases the betterment of the industry.

I strongly oppose a merger between Comcast and Time Warner Cable! My personal dealings with Comcast (when merely asking for a QUOTE of what internet service would cost me) have revealed that Comcast is a dishonest company (in the process of obtaining my price "quote", the Comcast representative signed me up for service without my understanding that was what was going on, and I was BILLED for service I never used - even after I called back to cancel this service I never wanted and never used). How can MORE Comcast be a good thing? At the moment, I do not have a cable TV service, but if a merger like this occurs, then it would be a significant deterring factor for me when choosing a company.

Please record my position as being strongly AGAINST this proposed merger between Comcast and Time Warner Cable.

Respectfully,
Z. Coleman
