

7521778177.txt

. I am a Comcast subscriber. I have seen choice and service go down and prices go up over the last several years. Now I suspect they are slowing their broadband service to regular consumers. I noticed this after I installed new cable equipment at their instruction. Then they tried to sell me a more rapid broadband speed. I told them that was for those who played computer games over the internet and I did not need that much speed. Now when I click my browser to go to a web site, there is a noticeable delay before the website is contacted. The browser (MSIE) says \"waiting for a connection.\" This happens with almost every website. Personally, I don't see how huge corporations benefit the public interest. Inevitable rates increase and options decrease. I know because I used to work for one.