. The Comcast-TimeWarner merger is a really bad idea for consumers. A mega corporation will only reduce competition and result in even poorer service and higher prices for customers. We need more choices, not less. Having one mega-corporation control most of the internet will only stifle competition and result in fewer choices for consumers. The only people who will benefit from this proposed merger are the shareholders! Alan B. McFall 1796 Chardonnay Drive Easton, PA 18045
