RE: MB Docket No. 14-57

Dear Chairman and Commissioners:

For twenty-nine years, Living Classrooms Foundation has been a leader in community development, education and workforce development in the Baltimore-Washington region, earning local and national recognition for our results. Living Classrooms addresses some of the most challenging issues affecting disadvantaged children, youth, and young adults, and believes that every student can reach his or her potential, even those residing in distressed communities, if provided a continuum of resources and quality programming that is effective and structured.

The Children's Target Investment Zone is Living Classrooms' strategic Community Development Initiative aimed at providing effective, seamless solutions and evidence-based practices. The initiative encompasses community-based schools, programs, facilities, and resources serving children, youth and families in creating a holistic, sustainable cradle-through-college-to-career pipeline of support services to break the cycle of poverty in East Baltimore. Living Classrooms is concentrating its core competencies of Education, Workforce Development, and Health & Wellness in this area to create a coordinated effort between families, schools, and key partners to develop an effective community pathway of success.

Over the years, Comcast has been a significant partner of Living Classrooms' Children's Target Investment Zone Initiative. Most recently, Comcast supported the costs to outfit the Comcast Digital Lab at Living Classrooms' Patterson Park Youth Sports and Education Center, Powered by Under Armour. At the Comcast Digital Lab, Living Classrooms staff have taught digital literacy and helped to provide underprivileged students with access to 21st Century Technology.

Not only has Comcast been generous in supporting programmatic costs, but Comcast employees have been extremely generous with their time. Through the Comcast Cares Day, Comcast employees have helped to do environmental clean-ups and helped students to build gardens and other green spaces outside of our Community Hubs and Educational Centers. Additionally, we are grateful for the opportunity to market our programming and fundraising efforts on Comcast's channel.

Comcast is a valued corporate partner of Living Classrooms Foundation in Baltimore and we look forward to continuing our partnership with Comcast in the years to come.

Sincerely,

James Piper Bond
President and CEO
