Agriculture is one of the largest industries in this country, even though ranchers and farmers comprise a small segment of the population. We are of utmost importance because farming and ranching is the food source for all of us, rural and urban, and to some extent into foreign nations too. Urban people need to realize that food does not originate in the back rooms of major retail grocery chains. The programs on RFD TV are a great opportunity for urban people to learn where it all begins, and to become aware of rural people's stewardship and love of the land. This is a sincere appeal to reconsider the importance of RFD TV to all of us.
