If Direct TV drops RFDTV, then we are going back to an antenna. We watch very little regular TV now, but RFDTV is our favorite tv station. We have been with Direct for several years, but we will not pay the high price with Direct for just their programs. I do not understand why you can't keep a good, clean family tv show that lots of rural and city people watch - it has been a pleasure to be able to watch the music shows, Hee Haw, different programs about different states - if you do away with RFDTV, you will really mess "a good thing" up. Please rethink this.....
